Supervisor Molina made the following statement:

“The inaugural World Baseball Classic (WBC) which took place in 2006 was established as the preeminent International baseball tournament in the world. It proved to be an unprecedented baseball event that featured many of the best players in the world competing for their home countries and territories for the first time ever; giving fans around the world a chance to see baseball in an exciting and compelling new format.

“The 2006 WBC was played in a seven venues in culturally diverse and sports-passionate cities in the United States, Japan and Puerto Rico with approximately 750,000 fans attending games. These games were broadcast in over 200 nations in seven different languages.

“Currently, the World Baseball Classic, Inc (WBCI) is in the process of receiving Bid Proposals for potential sites for the 2009 WBC. Thorough evaluations will take place shortly thereafter with the sites being selected in November, 2007 and announced in December, 2007. It is fully anticipated that the 2009 WBC will surpass 2006 attendance and broadcast figures.

“The Los Angeles Dodgers will submit a Bid Proposal to WBCI with the intent of Los Angeles and Dodger Stadium hosting games and associated events for the 2009 WBC. If Dodger Stadium is selected as a host site for the 2009 WBC, it will directly benefit the County by continuing to showcase Los Angeles as the entertainment capital of the world. Furthermore, this event will provide tremendous economic, social and cultural benefits for the entire County.
